++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Often dry but rather cloudy Wednesday, although some bright spells.

Today:
Variable, often large amounts of cloud, with isolated light showers. However, there will also be occasional brighter spells. Winds will be generally on the light side. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Tonight:
Mostly dry with variable, often large amounts of cloud, although there will also be occasional clearer breaks, which could allow a few mist and fog patches to form. Minimum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Thursday:
Mostly dry with some bright or sunny spells. Becoming breezy in the north, especially across the Peak District, as thicker cloud and rain arrives toward midnight. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Bright but feeling colder on Friday. Winds easing. Saturday, bright but chilly start, turning cloudier. Sunday, cloudier and breezier with some rain, perhaps heavy across the Derbyshire hills. Milder.
